

This is a comment about the de-regulation of the media..i hope this is where i was supposed to send it. 02-207

"The FCC's strategic goal for media is to revise media regulations so that media ownership rules promote competition and diversity in a comprehensive, legally sustainable manner and facilitate the mandated migration to digital modes of delivery." This quote on your website, and i fail to see how selling what is supposed to be the "airwaves of the people" to a few large corporations will bring diversity or objectivity. The more large companies buy the harder it will become to find news, and television that has an objective point of view that isnt swayed with the motive to make a dollar. I understand that media is a business, but it still belongs to the people. The majority of America has no idea that their airwaves might be auctioned off, but the ones that do strongly oppose it. Correct me if i am wrong when i say that the FCC has recieved many complaints regarding this issue. It is something that will effect everyone. Slowly we are being forced fed what we should be listening to and watching by the same few companies.If this passes how much more will these companies want and what will the FCC give them? The FCC was created to govern the airwaves on behalf of the people. Please live up to that and listen to what we are saying. Dont privatize the airwaves anymore than they already have been. In a country that was raised on diversity, it seems to be becoming a scarce commodity especially among media. Dont let that happen.
